Postcard from the Pacific Princess:

There is nothing like a cruise for a great holiday, whether you choose to be really energetic or just relax, or do both! We first experienced the pleasures of cruising when our two young sons accompanied us on a Christmas Cruise of the South Pacific .in 1973. We ALL had a fantastic holiday, especially our boys. . I have indeed been fortunate to visit most parts of the world, and through all my experiences I still find the people of the countries I visit the most interesting.

We have recently returned from our latest holiday aboard the "Pacific Princess", on a South Pacific Cruise for 10 nights. Everything on this luxury ship was perfect, with it's antique furnishings and it's magnificent staterooms with balcony, and there were so many activities in which to partake, the days just flew by. We attended talks on antique jewellery, porcelain, digital cameras, computers, demonstrations on ice , vegetable, and fruit carvings, paper flower making, ., cha cha lessons, etc. The Broadway Cabarets, after our delicious dinners, in the evening, were top class,. Then, plenty of parties, and dancing afterwards..!!! Wow!!

Cruising offers energized activities and entertainment galore, all included in the price , , great value.
